

Proclamation

WHEREAS, in the early hours of September 16, 1810, Catholic priest Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla gave “El Grito de Dolores”, a call to arms signaling the start of the war to liberate Mexico from Spanish rule. After 11 years of war, Spain withdrew its troops in August of 1821, and Mexico became an independent nation; and

WHEREAS, the great State of California was a territory of Mexico from 1821 through 1846, and remnants of that history is evident today in the names of cities such as Merced, Dos Palos, Los Banos, Madera, Fresno, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Sacramento, among others; and

WHEREAS, a significant portion of residents in Merced and the Central Valley are of Mexican heritage, sharing their rich history and culture to great benefit for our community and economy; and

WHEREAS, due to the importance of the Mexican community in the development of the state of California, especially the Central Valley, the Government of Mexico opened this Consulate in 1931.
