

The image shows the exterior of a modern airport terminal building under construction. The building features a combination of dark grey vertical siding and large glass windows. A prominent entrance on the left has a green awning and a 'WELCOME' sign above the glass doors. To the right, another section of the building has more windows and a smaller entrance. The foreground is a light-colored concrete plaza with several metal bollards and a tall utility pole. A chain-link fence is visible on the far left. The sky is clear and blue.
