Susan Savage –

During her thirty-year career in hospitality, Susan obtained a working knowledge of all aspects of the hotel industry. In the early 1970's she was hired as the first female desk clerk in the Disneyland Hotel organization and began a 7-year career with the Disneyland Hotel. She rose to an Operations Management position which included Disney Trainer.

Susan held several hotel executive management positions in Southern California and Washington DC including General Manager of Ramada Inn, Anaheim, California; Assistant General Manager for Holiday Inn Washington DC; and Operations Manager at the Dupont Plaza Hotel, Washington DC. She also was hired to bring a hospitality culture to the health care industry in her position as Associate Director of El Cajon Hospital, San Diego, California.

Susan also put her skills to use when she was invited to teach hospitality as a vocation in the Anaheim School District to both high school students and adult education classes. Susan holds a teaching credential from California State University, Long Beach. She is an accomplished artist. In Addition, she teaches art classes privately and has taught art through Osher Life Long Learning (OLLI) Furman University, Greenville South Carolina.

After moving to Washington DC, Susan became Chief Operating Officer of Encore Staffing, a large government staffing corporation. She was directly responsible for contracts with high profile federal departments including the Department of State, Patent and Trade, Treasury, and AmeriCore. She went on to become Associate Director of the Natcher Conference Center at the National Institute of Health, Bethesda MD.

Susan was fortunate to work for many desirable corporations including General Electric's 100,000 sq ft Distribution and Configuration Center in Frederick, Maryland. In her job as the Senior Administrative Manager in charge of all non-product departments, she was able to maintain all product support departments, ensure building maintenance, decrease shrinkage, and assure temporary staffing. Additionally, she learned and applied the GE Six Sigma philosophy and GE's supply chain culture.

After moving to South Carolina, Susan went on to become President of the Travelers Rest Arts Alliance located in the Upcountry of South Carolina. During her four-year tenure the Alliance increased artist and patron membership; opened a co-operative gallery for member artists; partnered with Furman University Art Department to support student artists; acquired an ASCAP license for member business' performances; resurrected an annual art festival which increased to 100 vendors and 5000 attendees; and laid the ground work for city involvement in the arts.

Susan currently lives in Merced, CA. In 2019, after moving back to California, Susan accepted a position as Vice President of Caris Inc. in charge of Operations.
