DISCUSSION

Cities and counties often utilize agreements to render reciprocal or supplemental assistance in the event of fire or other fire department related emergencies. The most common agreement types are automatic aid, mutual aid, and service contracts.

The agreement types describe their function.

Mutual Aid - assistance agreement between jurisdictions to provide services upon request on a case-by-case basis.

Auto Aid - assistance automatically by contractual agreement between two communities to emergency incident.

Service Contracts - one jurisdiction assumes all service needs for a defined area.

Merced County has expressed interest in an automatic aid agreement with the city. Agencies throughout California and other states utilize various types of service agreements. Staff is seeking policy direction to formalize discussions with Merced County. Some policy issues that likely need to be addressed include.

- Identify the appropriate type of service arrangement.
- Define the service area.

- Provide direction on cost recovery.
