DISCUSSION

Since 1994, the City of Merced has entered into annual agreements with the Merced Zoological Society for assistance with the operating costs of the Applegate Park Zoo. Generally, the contributions from the Society are used for operating expenses such as animal health, supplies, landscaping and staff costs. The Merced Zoological Society collects money by charging an entrance fee to the Zoo, operating the Bear Creek Nature Store, as well as hosting numerous fundraisers throughout the year.

The Society has been required to reimburse the City varying amounts of money throughout the years. Most recently, from fiscal years 2012/13 to 2015/16, the Society began contributing a much higher amount than they had previously. They increased their support during these years because of the financial situation facing the City. While they have been able to meet, and at times exceed the required contribution, they have had to depend on their reserves in some cases. They have also had increased expenses in the past several years, having to hire a part time employee to operate the gift shop/entry gate on weekends, due to lack of volunteer participation. Previous to their contribution being increased, the Society was able to provide more in kind services to the City, such as repairs, purchasing supplies and animal enrichment. Unfortunately, because of their increased contribution and employee expenses, they no longer have enough funds left over to provide the City with the level of in kind services that they once did.

The Society has expressed great concern for being able to sustain a contribution of $85,000. They have asked the City to reduce their minimum contribution from $85,000 (all entry fees plus $15,000 from their gift shop sales/fundraisers) to $80,000 (all entry fees, plus $10,000 from gift shop sales/fundraisers), and provide $5,000 worth of in kind services instead of a monetary payment of $5,000.

In June 2016, the City Council approved a budget for FY 2016-17 that included a contribution by the Society of at least $85,000 (approximately 30%). Decreasing their contribution to $80,000 will result in a $5,000 loss of revenue, but will most likely be recovered by unanticipated revenues in other areas of the Parks and Recreation budget.

The Society continues to support the City as much as possible. For example, last year they were only required to contribute $85,000 to the City, but they ended up contributing $90,343. There have also been many times throughout the last 20 years that their contributions have exceeded what was asked of them.
